LAPICIDA
TILE & STONE SPECIALIST

RECLAIM : TODAY

Reclaimed is a collection of the very best genuine antique stone and terracotta floors and tiles - expertly chosen for character and quality.

Re-establishing purpose and meaning to materials that have been loved before, Lapidica has maintained and developed traditional artisan skills to transform rare and sought-after old flooring materials into stylish products, reimagined for contemporary living.

Each surface carries unique tones and textures, heavy with history. Still beautiful from thousands of footsteps and ready for thousands to come.

When you acquire a genuine antique reclaimed floor from Lapidica you become its trusted custodian, its guardian for future generations. You add the next chapter to the story.

Generations of knowledge and tradition mean our craftsmen can expertly hand select and finish reclaimed stone to form antique floor patterns to enhance your project. Every tile or stone received by a client is usable with no wastage.

Uniquely, Lapidica has brought together bespoke machine technology and artisan craftsmen, working in union so that the antique stones are fit for modern building requirements - whilst maintaining the historic integrity of the original quarried stone.

LAPICIDA : RECLAIM EXPERTS

This Genuine Antique English Reclaimed Flag floor may look like an original floor laid centuries ago, yet it was actually only recently supplied to a private residence in Martha's Vineyard, New England.

Before it made its journey across the Atlantic it had been sourced by Lapidica then expertly recalibrated into a more regular thickness of around 30mm for ease of installation before being carefully colour selected to the client's specific requirements.

That is the Lapidica way. That is why Lapidica is the obvious choice for those who understand the processes and skills involved in the supply of a reclaimed floor. A Lapidica reclaimed floor is very special and will always remain unique to your project.

THINK GREEN : THINK RECLAIM

There are few things in life that are as green as reclaimed building materials. What can be more environmentally friendly than repurposing an antique floor for 21st century living - whether as part of a new build or restoration project?

At Lapidica, we pride ourselves on the fact that we can take a centuries-old floor, then use our in-house skills to turn it into a product that can enhance another property for a further 100 years. And, one day, that same floor could be reused to enhance another property, and another, ad infinitum.

Reclaim and reimagine for reuse is the mantra embraced by the specialist Reclaim Division at Lapidica.
